

Energypath is the region's largest sustainable energy event that brings together cutting-edge industry professionals and rising college graduates to learn and network. Over 150 professionals and 100 students attended Energypath 2019.

“As a first-time attendee, I was truly impressed with Energypath 2018. The panels featured a wide range of speakers from academia, government, and industry, all whose substantive expertise resulted in informative, engaging presentations. The event struck an excellent balance between being too large and too small, facilitating a collegial and friendly atmosphere for networking and socializing. Further, the event was impeccably organized and smoothly run, with regular, clear communication before, during, and after the event.” – Jennifer B.

With innovations in renewable energy and energy efficiency technologies growing at an exponential rate, our energy portfolio is becoming increasingly sustainable. This shift towards a more sustainable future is made easier by recent advancements in energy financing. This conference will feature both energy and financial experts who are a part of this shifting renewable energy and energy efficiency market.
