

Regenerative Energy Poster Contest

Sustainable Energy Fund is pleased to invite students (undergrads, masters, and PhD students welcome!) to present their research and theories for the concept of regenerative energy during a poster session and lunch at the EnergyPath Conference on June 2, 2020, held at DeSales University. Presented research can come from any disciplinary perspective, including technology, policy, finance, and more.

Regenerative Energy Future

A future in which energy production methods and use result in a positive impact on living systems, a system's impact that includes energy liberation, human health, and betterment of the environment.

Methods of transformation, delivery, and consumption of energy by humans that result in improved social and ecosystem outcomes.

2020 Regenerative Energy Poster Presentation Grand Prize: $1,500
